1. Introduction for Tutors

This qualification is intended for candidates who have already acquired a recognised qualification in counselling skills and want to:

- Take the next step in training to become a counsellor
- Learn more about counselling theory, ethics and mental health
- Be prepared for work as a professional counsellor in an agency setting.

This qualification leads to employment and increases employability for those whose role is to support others in sectors such as health and social care work, teaching and learning, advocacy and mediation, support and project work, and other helping roles. It provides additional skills for those already in employment and is likely to lead to increased opportunities for promotion and advancement towards practitioner-level qualifications (TC-L4).

See the CST-L3 Specification for more information on qualification purpose.

Tip:

Make sure your candidates understand that this course won't teach them to be a practising counsellor, but it may help them decide whether or not they want to continue with their training.

2. Qualification Structure

The qualification is made up of 7 mandatory learning outcomes, each of which has associated assessment criteria. This structure is based on the 7 processes of the CPCAB's Model.

Tip:

Encourage your candidates to think of the assessment criteria as 'learning tasks' which they complete and then record so that you can see they have achieved the task.

All the qualification information – including the minimum assessment requirements – is contained in the CST-L3 Specification.

The Learning Outcomes, Assessment Criteria and Guidance for Tutors can be found in Appendix 1 of this document.

To achieve the qualification candidates must be (a) internally assessed by you, the tutor, as Proficient in all 7 learning outcomes and (b) externally assessed by CPCAB as Proficient.

This qualification is eligible for fully in-person, blended or online delivery. Please see how to run CPCAB's qualifications online for more information.

3. Standardisation of Tutor Assessment

As a tutor for CST-L3 you are required to attend one of the free CPCAB standardisation training days either before or during your first delivery of the course. You must then attend a standardisation training session at least once every two years and receive 'cascade' training from a colleague in the intervening year.

Please see:

- CPCAB's Terms and Conditions.
- Further information including dates, venues and the booking form to book your place.

Important note:

- Failure to attend a standardisation training day may result in your internal assessment decisions being declared invalid.
- Where a training place has been reserved but the tutor does not attend on the day and has not informed CPCAB of the cancellation in advance the centre will be charged a non-attendance fee.

For further details please contact CPCAB via verification@cpcab.co.uk

4. Candidate Registration

Candidates must be registered with CPCAB within six weeks of the course start date. Candidates who are not registered will not receive qualification certificates. Candidate registrations should be completed via the CPCAB portal and by the centre's exams department.

Please note that CPCAB has no responsibility for candidates who are not registered with CPCAB.

- Please see the CPCAB Guidance on How to Register your Candidates \(CR0\).

When registering candidates please be aware of the need to complete a Conflict of Interest Declaration \(CR10\) form to inform CPCAB of any dual relationships/conflicts of interest likely to compromise the integrity of the assessment process e.g. if a tutor has any other personal/professional relationship with a prospective candidate¹. If in doubt, please contact CPCAB for further advice or information.

Minimum registration numbers

There is a minimum number of 6 candidates that need to be registered per group.

The minimum numbers for candidate registrations per centre per year are:

¹ Please see the Conflict of Interest Policy on the CPCAB website for further guidance.

- Levels 2 and 3: a total of 12 candidates per year
- Levels 4 to 6: a total of 9 candidates per year. (CPCAB strongly recommends a minimum of 9 candidates per group when registering Year 1 of TC-L4).

Please note that CPCAB reserves the right to refuse to register groups of fewer than 6 candidates. If registrations are below this number, in order for us to review if this registration can fulfil the qualification requirements, we would ask that you provide written details on how this group size will be managed to enable all core assessment activities to take place, and all relational and inter-personal aspects of the course to be fully experienced by all candidates involved. You should also note a contingency plan for what would occur if group numbers reduced further.²

Candidate registration fees

Please see the CPCAB Fees documents for candidate registration fees and any additional fees the centre may incur.

CPCAB minimum and maximum group size requirements

Please note that the minimum tutor numbers are mandatory:

Levels 2 and 3:

- minimum of one tutor involved in internal assessment
- maximum of 18 candidates with one tutor
- maximum of 24 candidates with two tutors

Levels 4 to 6:

- minimum of two tutors must be involved in internal assessment for higher level qualifications except LC-L4, CBT-L5 and OPCP-L5 which only require one.
- maximum of 16 candidates

² Until this information is received, we will not be able to approve this registration and the candidates will not be entered for any assessment. Please contact the exams department exams@cpcab.co.uk if your candidate group is smaller than the minimum requirements.

5. Internal Assessment

As the tutor you are responsible for carrying out internal assessment which is then internally moderated and verified at the centre and externally verified by CPCAB.

Candidates collect evidence of their learning in a portfolio and complete the Candidate Learning Record (CLR) found in the Candidate Guide, which is placed at the front of the portfolio to signpost the evidence for each criterion.

Candidates must give two pieces of evidence for each criterion. In addition, the CLR (when complete) must include references to the following three types of course work:³

1. Documents – Your candidate must include the regular exploration of their learning (called the learning review) which contains their reflections on the input, discussions, experiences and readings for the course and which they start right from the beginning of their studies. Your candidate must also include here, 1 self-review, 1 practice case presentation⁴ and at least 2 assignments (See Examples of Written Assignments for CST-L3). They might also include here a practice case study, review of audio/video recordings (including verbatim transcripts), tutorial records (when written by the candidate) and notes on their personal development.⁵
2. Tutor observation – Your candidate must include records of tutor feedback on their counselling practice sessions: they must refer to at least 1 example of being observed by you the tutor (which might be via an audio or video recording⁶). They might also include here tutorial records (when written by the tutor) , tutor feedback on their practice case presentation and group discussions (including contributions to seminars, group-work and group training supervision).
3. Testimony – Your candidate must include records of peer feedback on their counselling practice sessions. They might also include peer feedback on case presentations and group discussions (including contributions to seminars, group-work and group training supervision).
 - See CST-L3 Specification for a summary of minimum assessment requirements.
 - See the CPCAB film on How to build a student portfolio.

⁴ Here, within a group training supervision session, your candidate talks about (for example) their experience of a counselling practice session.

⁶ In the case of the audio or video recording, you may choose to listen to (or watch) the recording rather than observe the candidate directly.

Tip:

It is a good idea to outline possible sections in the portfolio. For example:

- Documents: learning reviews, self-review
- Tutor observations: tutor feedbacks on counselling practice
- Testimony: peer feedbacks on counselling practice

Make the portfolio requirements clear and encourage a consistent house style.

CPCAB recommends that candidates attach a Criteria Assessment Sheet (CAS) to any work they hand in for assessment. You can use the CAS sheets to indicate which criteria have been met and to offer formative feedback throughout the course.

Tip:

Meeting criteria is important, but the overall learning experience should not be criteria driven, achieving this balance is down to your skill as a tutor. You can also encourage candidates to be creative.

It is important to explain to candidates that the work that they include in their portfolios is assessable material and cannot be kept completely confidential. Not only will it be assessed by you the tutor, but it may also be seen by all those involved in the internal assessment process or any associated appeal or complaint. Such people will include the internal moderator and verifier as part of internal quality assurance (IQA) as well as the CPCAB external verifier.

6. Recording Final Results of Internal Assessment

At the end of the course you (the tutor) must look at the evidence referenced in the Candidate Learning Record (CLR) and assess whether the candidate has achieved all the learning outcomes and associated criteria (including referencing all three types of course work) and met all the qualification requirements. This final assessment is recorded on the Completion Statement at the end of the CLR.

Where a candidate has not met the learning outcomes (either because of insufficient evidence or because you as tutor are aware of contra-indications⁷) this must be recorded on the Completion Statement at the final assessment. All possible steps should be taken to give candidates prior warning of any concerns likely to affect the final internal assessment decision. These concerns should clearly relate to specific learning outcome(s) and be documented (e.g. in tutorial records) alongside any agreed actions or support offered.

⁷ Substantive evidence which you have observed as tutor which indicates that a specific assessment criterion or learning outcome has not been met despite the evidence submitted by the candidate.

Tip:

It is important to emphasise to candidates at the beginning of the course that simply presenting evidence to meet assessment criteria may not be sufficient to meet the overall learning outcomes and/or qualification requirements.

The tutor's final internal assessment (IA) for the whole group must be recorded (by the centre) on-line via the CPCAB Portal. Please note that centres do not need to wait until the external verification visit before recording internal assessment results.

The IA must record one of the following final outcomes:

1. Proficient (P): the candidate has met all the assessment criteria, achieved all 7 learning outcomes and has met all the qualification requirements.
2. Not Proficient (NP)⁸: the candidate has not met the assessment criteria and/or has not achieved the 7 learning outcomes and/or has not met all the qualification requirements. Or contra-indications have been indicated.
3. Left course: the candidate left the course before completing internal assessment.
4. Deceased: the candidate died before completing the course.
5. Deferred (D): the candidate is being supported to complete internal assessment but has not yet met all the qualification requirements. Reasons might include incomplete portfolio work, or work to address contra-indications.

Centres may make explicit appropriate arrangements with candidates who have been Deferred to complete the qualification within a clear time frame. It is expected that candidates will complete within three months beyond the end of the course.

If a candidate is likely to exceed this then the tutor must complete the Extension Request for Candidates \(CR11\) form for candidates and send it to CPCAB before the three months have expired to request permission from CPCAB for a further extension:

All requests must be sent to exams@cpcab.co.uk

Alternative arrangements

If any circumstances arise where the approved tutor(s) is unable to sign off the IA for a candidate, the centre must seek formal CPCAB approval for alternative arrangements in order to ensure that these meet CPCAB requirements for valid internal assessment.⁹

⁸ Candidates have access to centre internal appeals procedures if they wish to contest an internal assessment decision.

⁹ This is particularly important in situations arising from complaints against internal assessment or breakdown in relationship between candidate and tutors.

Certification

Qualification certificates are automatically sent to your centre for all non-deferred candidates who are Proficient in both internal and external assessment and have successfully completed all the qualification requirements.

- Please use form Certification Request for Deferred Candidates \(CR5\) to request certificates for deferred candidates once they have successfully completed all the qualification requirements.

7. External Assessment

For the CST-L3 External Assessment candidates complete a Reflective Review Paper. This is completed independently by the candidate at home, over a set 1-week period. Candidates are asked to answer a set of questions based on the Learning Outcomes of the qualification and to reflect on their understanding of counselling skills at this level. The purpose of this is to measure a candidate's knowledge and reflective skills.

For further information and full details of the external assessment process please see the CST-L3 External Assessment Guide on our website. It is important that centres access this guide and understand the External Assessment facilitation process.

Candidates must have completed at least two-thirds of the course before undertaking external assessment.

The completed Reflective Review Papers and facilitation documents are sent to CPCAB for assessment, normally via your centre exams department.

If a candidate is absent from the external assessment, then they can be entered to sit at the next available window. Please contact exams@cpcab.co.uk to ensure that they are entered. This must be done at least 14 days before the external assessment window.

8. Internal Moderation, Verification, and Internal Quality Assurance (IQA)

During each teaching year an internal moderator must sample and confirm your assessments for this qualification – but not necessarily for each group you teach. During each teaching year an internal verifier/internal quality assurer must also verify that the centre's programmes are properly in place and operating effectively. Please contact your programme coordinator to find out what procedures operate at your centre.

- See the Guide to Internal Moderation, Internal Verification and Internal Quality Assurance for Centres.

9. External Verification

All centres teaching CST-L3 are required to have two mandatory annual external verification visits, usually one early into the academic year (between August and December) and a second later in the academic year (between March and July).

During your visits from the external verifier, they will review the centre's system of internal assessment. To do this they examine the overall process of assessment, together with a sample of candidate learning records (CLRs), portfolios and associated tutor assessment and moderation of those CLRs/portfolios. They will also meet with the counselling training team and a registered candidate group.

There are no fees for external verification visits as these are included within the candidate registration fee but where additional support/visits are deemed necessary there could be an additional fee incurred by the centre.

Please see the CPCAB website for:

- CPCAB Fees for guidance on additional fees.
- CPCAB Guidance to External Verification Visits.

10. Annual Practising Certificate (APC)

When a centre first registers with CPCAB they will receive initial approval to run for one year. In order to meet the requirements of its regulators¹⁰, to comply with UK law and to protect the interests of candidates CPCAB is obliged to obtain a further declaration of compliance from each of its recognised centres every year. This declaration is also intended to confirm that the information provided to CPCAB at the time of the centre's first approval remains accurate and up to date.

It must be signed by the person responsible for the quality assurance and management of CPCAB qualifications within the centre via the CPCAB portal at the beginning of each academic year. Once signed the portal will automatically generate your Annual Practising Certificate (APC) for the current academic year. This declaration will be requested before the first registration is made and may delay further registrations if not completed.

An APC can be withheld:

- Until the annual declaration of compliance has been signed.
- Following an external verification visit to the centre any serious concerns are identified. The APC will be withheld until these concerns have been rectified. CPCAB will offer appropriate support.

¹⁰ Ofqual in England, Qualifications Wales in Wales and CCEA Regulation in Northern Ireland

CPCAB reserves the right to refuse to register any further candidates or to delay candidate certification for qualifications where serious concerns have been identified. Failure to respond to the support offered and/or address areas identified as needing development may lead to deregistration. Deregistration may also result if a centre is involved in malpractice.

- Please view our policies on Sanctions, Malpractice & Maladministration, and Whistleblowing on the CPCAB Website.

11. Equal Opportunities and Reasonable Adjustments

In order to make sure that assessment is fair to all candidates, CPCAB requires all recognised centres to have an appropriate candidate support system in place and to make appropriate arrangements to meet individual assessment needs. As a centre you are required to identify individual candidate assessment needs prior to enrolment in order to make arrangements for reasonable adjustments.

Please see CPCAB's policy for the Application of Reasonable Adjustments and Special Consideration.

Reasonable adjustments for External Assessments should reflect the kind of internal support that the centre is already giving the candidate. For External Assessment adjustments requiring prior agreement from CPCAB please submit applications to exams@cpcab.co.uk. These must be submitted at least eight weeks prior to the external assessment date. See Application for Reasonable Adjustments \(CR3\).

Special consideration is designed for candidates who face unexpected or unplanned difficulties at the time of the external assessment for example unexpected illness. See Application for Special Consideration CR3a.

Both CPCAB and centres are required to recognise and comply with both the spirit and the word of equal opportunities legislation. Previous Acts were amalgamated into the Equality Act 2010.

Please see CPCAB's Equal Opportunities Policy.

12. Appeals and Complaints

CPCAB are committed to maintaining standards across our recognised centres so that the public can have confidence in us and our qualifications. We provide our own complaints and appeals policies for the benefit of centres and candidates.

- Please view our policies on Complaints, Appeals, Sanctions, Malpractice & Maladministration, and Whistleblowing on the CPCAB website.

All CPCAB approved centres are required to have a complaints procedure which is available to candidates. Candidates must address all appeals or complaints about internal assessment or any aspect of their learning experience on the course via the centre's own internal complaints and appeals procedures. It is the centre's responsibility to make these procedures available to candidates. Candidates who contact CPCAB directly on these issues will normally be directed back to their centre.

For information relating to appeals against External Assessment results please see the External Assessment Guide for this qualification.

13. Additional Qualification Requirements

In addition to meeting the assessment criteria and learning outcomes candidates need to meet the following additional course requirements.

Group training supervision

Group training supervision is an important part of the course. This can be linked to the requirement for a case presentation. Candidates are expected to present their work from counselling practice sessions, receive supervisory support and challenge from tutors and peers, and learn from and challenge other candidates in the group. The emphasis here is to reflect on and develop counselling knowledge, skills and techniques. There is a requirement of 10 hours group training supervision.

Personal counselling or therapy for candidates

There is no requirement for personal counselling or therapy work. However, it is strongly suggested that candidates engage in their chosen form of external personal development. Some options for this might include workshops, group work, webinars, discussion forums, life coaching or counselling/therapy.

Personal tutorials

To aid the retention and achievement of candidates, CPCAB strongly recommends that regular, individual personal tutorials are built into the programme GLH. Tutors should take the opportunity of tutorials to raise and document any concerns likely to affect the assessment of the candidate.

We recommend that clear tutorial discussion and outcome pro-forma are kept (in line with normal centre practice) and agreed and signed by tutor and candidate.

Agency research

It is strongly suggested that candidates are encouraged to research agencies that offer counselling to support their understanding of how an agency operates within an ethical, legal and procedural framework and to also become aware of what counselling services are available in their area. Although there is no requirement for candidates to have placement experience, it is strongly recommended that candidates are encouraged to gain some experience in a helping role within an agency that offers counselling towards the end of CST-L3 and start to develop links with potential placement providers, particularly where they intend to progress to higher study.

14. Tutor Feedback

Your feedback is vital to CPCAB to ensure the ongoing quality of our qualifications. Feedback enables us to meet our requirements as a regulated Awarding Organisation and contributes towards our annual qualification review process. Please ensure that you complete the online feedback survey at the conclusion of each course delivery. Please click on this link to access the survey - Tutor feedback.

Appendix 1: CST-L3 Learning Outcomes, Assessment Criteria and Guidance for Tutors

CST-L3
LEARNING OUTCOME:	1. Prepare to work within an ethical framework for counselling
Assessment criteria	Candidate guidance to criteria	Notes for tutors (guidance only)
1.1 Apply understanding of an ethical framework to counselling practice sessions	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Consider and differentiate between what is required and what is recommended in a professional ethical framework – e.g. BACP. • Consider how an ethical framework informs professional counselling practice. • Demonstrate understanding of how ethical practice is evident in counselling practice sessions. • Explore ethical dilemmas by focused discussion of your own experience from working with case scenarios in counselling practice sessions 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Consider ethical guidelines in context – for example use hypothetical cases to explore ethical issues. ❖ Use role-play to practise implementing aspects of the framework, for example, confidentiality, managing risk, ethical dilemmas. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, observed practice sessions.
1.2 Explain the importance of working within limits of proficiency	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reflect on importance of 'limits of proficiency' in relation to ethical practice. • Discover the limits of your proficiency by focused discussion of your own experience of working with case scenarios in counselling practice sessions. • Show understanding by referring to new insights gained through discussion. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Discuss limits of proficiency as part of ethical practice. ❖ Review the range of presenting client issues in relation to counsellor capability. ❖ Introduce guidelines for reviewing practice sessions – e.g. look at ethical considerations, client needs and the candidate's responses to the issue(s). ❖ Explore risks of working outside limits of ability. ❖ Discuss awareness of personal limitations in practice sessions. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review.
1.3 Describe the ethical, legal and procedural framework in which an agency operates	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explore an agency's ethical policy and procedure with reference to working ethically and safely. • Explore how legal processes might impact on an agency counselling service. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Organise a group exercise to generate a basic (mock) policy and procedure to ensure fair and safe practice for a hypothetical agency. ❖ Ask candidates to research a chosen agency's ethical and legal policies and procedures. ❖ Assess how this might impact on the work of individual counsellors. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, assignment, case presentation.
1.4 Demonstrate understanding of client assessment and referral in an agency setting	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understand the role and purpose of client assessment and how it informs the counselling work itself. • Identify the nature and range of information necessary to begin to get a sense of the client's perception of their problem and practice this process in counselling practice sessions. • Understand the importance of client assessment and explore referral issues. • Show skills in observed counselling practice sessions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Example activity: Research possible required and appropriate information. Discuss the suggestions. Draw up a list of appropriate/likely information required from assessment. Practise assessment skills. ❖ Explore reasons for referral and difficulties involved in making referrals. ❖ Example activity: candidates to research counselling agencies providing specific help. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, other written work, observed counselling practice sessions.

LEARNING OUTCOME:	2. Understanding the counselling relationship
Assessment criteria	Candidate guidance to criteria	Notes for tutors (guidance only)
2.1 Explain the nature and constraints of the counsellor role within different settings	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Clearly differentiate between the role of the counsellor in an agency as opposed to (for example) a helper or key worker for a client in the same organisation. • Explore the limitations of counselling, in relation to expectations of clients, in a range of different agency settings – e.g. rehabilitation centre, GP surgery, drop-in centre, young person’s advisory centre. • Practise explaining your role to clients in counselling practice sessions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Contrast the expectations of clients and the reality of a counsellor in role in different agency settings – e.g. rehabilitation centre, GP surgery, drop-in centre, young person’s advisory centre. ❖ Develop a sense of what the candidate imagines they will be offering a client. Example activity: ask individuals to illustrate on paper a representative image of a counsellor’s role, and then to verbally explain their drawing. ❖ Example activity: Candidates look up “Counselling in ... (different agency providers)” and present findings to the group. Discuss the challenges to the role of counsellor presented by various expectations and limitations. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review and other written work.
2.2 Establish and sustain the boundaries of the counsellor role in counselling practice sessions	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explore boundary limits to the counselling relationship. • Identify situations and issues that challenge personal and professional boundaries and explore ways of managing these – e.g. “doorknob confessions”, attraction between counsellor and client, confidentiality issues etc. • Practise establishing and sustaining boundary limits to the counselling relationship. • Reflect on your ability to establish and sustain boundaries. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Introduce the idea that clients and/or counsellors might consciously or unconsciously exceed boundary limits in the counselling relationship. Invite suggestions as to why this might happen. ❖ Use role-plays specifically designed to take both client and/or counsellor to the edge of personal, time, role and confidentiality boundaries – to practise maintaining boundaries. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, observed counselling practice sessions.
2.3 Explain how the counselling relationship contributes to the counselling work	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Clearly state what you feel and think is necessary to develop an effective counselling relationship with clients. • Define those characteristics of the counselling relationship that facilitate growth and change and identify attitudes which enable the counsellor to introduce those characteristics to the relationship. • Show skills in observed counselling practice sessions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Introduce the idea of there being a connection between a) the relationship; and b) the process of counselling. ❖ Example activity: on an A3 sheet, generate a visual word map of necessary components of an effective counselling relationship. Discuss this and isolate the characteristics which are essential for effecting change and growth. Candidates identify personal attitudes which enable/disable the client experience of these characteristics. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, assignments, case presentation.
2.4 Manage the stages of the counselling relationship	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify three different stages in the counselling session and process. • Be clear about the reasons for attending to, and effectively using, the beginning, middle and end for the purpose of developing, maintaining and concluding the counselling process. • Show skills in observed counselling practice sessions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Outline the three stages of the counselling process. Illustrate with reference to the current teaching session, which also has a beginning, middle and an end, each with a specific content and purpose. ❖ Example activity: model the three stages in role-play and ask candidates to identify the content and purpose of each. Discuss the consequences of any part having insufficient attention or clarity. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, observed counselling practice sessions.

LEARNING OUTCOME:	3. Understand difference and diversity issues to develop empathic understanding
Assessment criteria	Candidate guidance to criteria	Notes for tutors (guidance only)
3.1 Identify and reflect on diversity within personal relationships	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Learn about diversity through exploring the membership of the course group: the different beliefs and behaviour. Become aware of the demographics of your group – e.g. culture, social attitudes, family, nationality, race, age, gender, disability, sexuality etc. • Become aware of your own response and reactions to the differences within the group. • Investigate and analyse the implications of being perceived as 'different'. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Work with diversity in the learning group. Example exercise: candidates working in pairs (and then fours) identify ways in which each candidate is different to another in terms of one or all of the following cultural aspects: family, social attitudes, nationality, race, age, sexuality, disability, or gender. Discuss the reactions to diversity in the group. ❖ Explore the difficulties and barriers around being honest about personal prejudices and stereotypes and why it is important to be able to articulate and explore personal judgements about others. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, case presentation.
3.2 Identify and reflect on a range of diversity issues in the wider social context	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Discover the range of ways in which people experience discrimination, stereotyping, prejudice, and stigma. • Familiarise yourself with the legal aspects of anti-discrimination. • Explore own experience(s) of discrimination and discriminating. • Use the learning gained from understanding of diversity issues to inform your counselling practice sessions. • Take account of diversity issues when developing a counselling relationship. • Consider the needs of a client who has experienced discriminatory responses in society. • Show skills in observed counselling practice sessions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Invite candidates to discover all the ways – both positive and negative – in which diversity can impact on the counselling relationship. ❖ Organise presentations by candidates on their findings in relation to above activity. ❖ Invite candidates to explore and discuss the statement "Why we judge". ❖ Share experiences and 'meanings' to increase understanding – e.g. explore implications of concepts like discrimination, acceptance, stereotyping, prejudice, stigma and difference. ❖ Discuss the nature of the relationship–needs of a client who has experienced discriminatory responses in society. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, other written work, observed counselling practice sessions.
3.3 Apply awareness of diversity issues to enhance empathic understanding	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop a more intimate sense of what another's experience of difference has been by listening to the feelings and personal cost related to perceived or real difference. • Be prepared for – and aware of – your responses to the experience of difference. • Identify and understand personal blocks to empathy and identify issues you feel unable to empathise with. • Show skills in observed counselling practice sessions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Develop a deeper sense of what another's experience of difference has been by listening to the feelings and outcomes related to perceived or real difference. ❖ Increase understanding of diversity issues by encouraging small group discussion of the individual candidate's experiences of; not belonging, not being special, losing out, being excluded, feeling less than good enough, not having the right to, being taken advantage of, etc. ❖ Provide an opportunity for candidates to develop a deeper sense of 'what others feel' by asking them to work in pairs to explore each other's experience. Encourage them to work to understand the feelings related to 'being rejected', 'being put down', 'being ignored', 'not understood', 'treated as stupid' etc. Ensure the focus of each "session" is on the individual's experience rather than a general sharing of experience. ❖ Arrange for candidates to practise exploring the 'meaning' of diversity for another in counselling role-play. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, observed counselling practice sessions.

LEARNING OUTCOME:	4. Work within a user-centred approach to counselling
Assessment criteria	Candidate guidance to Criteria	Notes for tutors (guidance only)
4.1 Establish the client's needs and expectations when agreeing to work together	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Involve the client in the process of offering and agreeing a working contract which takes account of the client's expectations as well as agency policies. • Understand the importance of listening for the client's agenda rather than responding from your own frame of reference. • Show skills in observed counselling practice sessions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Invite candidates to explore how the counsellor and client might have different agendas and expectations and explore and discuss how this might manifest in the work. ❖ Highlight the relevance of the working contract. Example activity: with emphasis on 'agreement' and client needs, generate a contract which counsellors might make with clients. ❖ Assess via (for example) observed counselling practice sessions.
4.2 Maintain the focus on the client's agenda and needs	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Show how you have used case discussion to review client work, including the contract. • Recognise the need to be clear and yet sensitive to changes in client needs and behaviour which affect the working contract. • Practise this criterion in case discussion sessions. • Show skills in observed counselling practice sessions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Emphasise the need to review client work (including the contract) in order to keep the focus on the client's needs (spoken and unspoken) as counselling progresses. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, observed counselling practice sessions.

LEARNING OUTCOME:	5. Use counselling theory to develop self-awareness in counselling practice
Assessment criteria	Candidate guidance to criteria	Notes for tutors (guidance only)
5.1 Use counselling theory to understand own personality	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reflect on ways in which theories introduced on the course have extended your understanding of yourself. • Reflect on one or more theories/ideas which help you to understand your personality more fully. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Include, in your introduction of counselling theories, a focus on ideas about personality development. ❖ Ask your candidates to reflect on the way(s) in which one or more theories have helped them to understand themselves. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, assignments.
5.2 Use counselling theory to understand own personal history	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reflect on theoretical ideas and concepts which help you to understand your life events and your responses to those events. • Apply theory to challenging issues in your formative years and gain awareness of how the past might impact on the present. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Include, in your introduction of counselling theories, a focus on ideas which try to explain the evolution of personal histories. ❖ Invite candidates to reflect on their families of origins and use selected theories to decide whether or not the past can impact on the present. ❖ In small group discussion encourage candidates to explore (and therefore increase understanding of) choices and events in their lives. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, assignments.
5.3 Use counselling theory to understand own relationships	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reflect on theories which help you to understand your relationships, both past and present, and the way in which you form, develop, maintain and end those relationships. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Explore ideas which emerge from theories regarding the nature of our relationships. ❖ Enable greater understanding by facilitating discussion about the nature of different kinds of relationships – e.g., parent/child, teacher/student, adult/adult, victim/abuser. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, assignments.
5.4 Evidence how self-awareness contributes to the ability to empathise with others	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reflect on own difficult personal issues in order to raise your awareness of the importance of being understood empathically. • Apply empathic understanding gained from exploring yourself (own internal conflicts and/or difficult life events and/or relationships with others). • Show understanding of the relationship between exploring your own difficult issues and increasing your ability to empathise with others. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Explore and discuss with candidates the importance of working on own personal issues as a way of becoming more empathic with others. ❖ Discuss the difference between being 'heard' and being 'understood'. ❖ Explore how 'difficult issues' might relate to internal conflicts and/or difficult life events and/or relationship problems. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, self-review, case presentation.

LEARNING OUTCOME:	6. Understand theories of counselling and mental health
Assessment criteria	Candidate guidance to criteria	Notes for tutors (guidance only)
6.1 Explain why theory is important in counselling work	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reflect what is meant by theory. • Reflect on the role of theory in counselling work. • Explain why counsellors need to consider theory in counselling work. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Invite candidates to explore what theory is and differentiate between theory of the work/practice and theory of self. ❖ Explore in general terms how theory informs client work. ❖ Explore how theory provides a basis and foundation for understanding the client, self, and the counselling work. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, case presentation, assignments.
6.2 Describe the main theoretical approaches to counselling	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop understanding of the fundamental ideas behind the major theoretical approaches – e.g., psychodynamic, humanistic, cognitive, transpersonal etc. • Develop your understanding in relation to one or more counselling theories. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Introduce the fundamental ideas behind the major theoretical approaches – e.g. psychodynamic, humanistic, cognitive, transpersonal etc. ❖ Compare the way in which each of the major theoretical approaches informs the counselling relationship. ❖ It is helpful not to overwhelm candidates with too many theories. It is sufficient to use 3 main schools in order to allow candidates to compare and contrast. Introducing too many often results in confusion and misunderstanding. ❖ With reference to theories, clarify what is considered to be ‘therapeutic’. Differentiate between what each theory hopes to achieve. ❖ Encourage candidates to consider growth or therapeutic outcome from the point of view of two different theories. ❖ Assess via (for example) in learning review, assignments.
6.3 Use counselling theory to understand the client	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Show how different theories offer a different language and different way of understanding the client’s a) personality/self; b) personal history; c) patterns of relating (see the CPCAB model). • Apply knowledge of theory to a range of presenting problems and client issues. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Invite candidates to apply knowledge of individual theories to a range of client issues and presenting problems. ❖ Discuss how theory provides a framework for understanding the client’s a) personality/self; b) personal history; c) patterns of relating. ❖ Invite candidates to apply a chosen theory to a fictitious client and then present their findings to the group to encourage understanding and awareness of the client and the work. ❖ Refer to these concepts specifically and individually during sessions which inform candidates about the theories. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, case presentation, assignments.
6.4 Explain the nature of common mental health problems	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify and describe problems which are categorised as Common Mental Health Problems (CMHPs). • Offer explanations for the incidence of these problems in society. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Identify and describe problems which are categorised as Common Mental Health Problems (CMHPs). ❖ Encourage candidates to research CMHPs and to identify explanations for the incidence of these problems in society. ❖ Invite the group to stage a debate on the “sad, bad or mad” statement, inviting personal opinion and personal experience. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, presentations.
6.5 Describe how counselling can promote positive mental health	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explore the features of positive mental health. • Suggest ways in which counselling might have a positive impact on mental health. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Explore, through discussion and presentations, the meaning and parameters of the concept of ‘mental health’. ❖ Invite candidates to comment on the way in which the counselling relationship might have an impact on mental health, suggesting they call on a range of medias to support their opinions/findings – e.g. TV, newspapers etc. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, presentations.

6.6 Explain why research findings are important in counselling work	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reflect on what is meant by research findings. • Explain why counsellors need to take account of research findings in counselling work. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Discuss what counselling research is and make candidates aware that there are different types of research. ❖ Explore in general terms how research informs the development of counselling theory and counselling practice. ❖ Give examples of how research findings influence government policy and counselling provision e.g. NICE guidelines, preference for CBT, increase in psychological therapy. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, assignments.
LEARNING OUTCOME:	7. Use feedback, reflection and supervision to support counselling studies
Assessment criteria	Candidate guidance to criteria	Notes for tutors (guidance only)
7.1 Use feedback from others to develop understanding of counselling	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify constructive guidance provided by peers and tutors which has informed your learning. • Write about personal and course goals and your thoughts about achieving those goals. • Show your ability to plan and reflect. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Encourage candidates to collect, classify and act on feedback received. ❖ Activity example: allow candidates to work together in small groups to support and help each other. Focus on what constitutes good enough evidence to meet individual criterion. ❖ Provide tutorials which focus on goals and action plans. ❖ Assess via (for example) action plans, self-reviews.
7.2 Give constructive feedback to other counselling trainees	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Show your ability to critically evaluate counselling practice sessions. • Use feedback sheets to show your ability to give constructive feedback. • Show your ability to give verbal feedback to peers at the end of counselling practice sessions. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Identify aspects of counselling skills which candidates need to analyse critically. ❖ Invite candidates to identify challenges and blocks to giving effective and productive feedback. ❖ Assess via (for example) tutor observation, peer feedback sheets.
7.3 Describe the nature and use of clinical supervision	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reflect on the insights and understanding gained from case discussion. • Identify situations in which your limited knowledge and skills were helped and supported by close discussion with your tutor and/or a more experienced counsellor. • Show your understanding of the role and importance of supervision. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Encourage focused use of case discussions. ❖ Invite candidates to work together to present via creative mediums – e.g. drawing, collage, music, film etc – the meaning and value of supervision. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review following case discussion, case presentation.
7.4 Use supervisee skills to contribute to, and learn from, case discussion	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Record your input into case discussions. • Identify questions which help to provide support for a peer during case discussion. • Clarify the needs of the client by linking case information to counselling theory. • Record your use of insights gained from case discussion. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ❖ Encourage candidates to make a short record of their experience of a case discussion. ❖ Provide some questions – and discuss others – which might be helpful in expanding the candidate's ability to think critically about a case. ❖ Assess via (for example) learning review, tutor observation.
